Republican Nomination for U. S. Senate Attracts Attention, Too

U. S. BOARD MAY ACT

Eight Seek Yoder's Place As Lieutenant-Governor; Bricker Unopposed

COLUMBUS, Aug. 8.—(UP)—Ohioans will go to the polls Tuesday to nominate candidates for congressional state and county offices.

If the predictions of the election experts hold good, there will be a record primary election vote. It has been estimated that 1,450,000 votes will be cast.

The reason that a record number of voters is expected to mark the ballots is the lively interest shown during the campaign for the Democratic nomination for governor and the Republican nomination for United States senator.

Governor Martin L. Davey, arch enemy of the Committee for Industrial Organization and best known beyond Ohio borders for his use of national guardmen to end the "little steel" strike of 1937, is seeking renomination for a third consecutive term.

Pension Coercion Charged Gov. Davey was faced with a last minute problem of important proportions as he completed a campaign that has been long and bitter. The federal Social Security board announced that it would investigate charges that Ohio old age pensioners had been coerced into voting for Davey.

The board said it would suspend federal aid to Ohio pensioners if it found that Federal laws had been violated in connection with political appeals to pension recipients.

Gov. Davey charged that his opponent for the Democratic nomination, Charles Sawyer of Cincinnati, had "engineered" the board's projected investigation.

"This move from Washington, engineered by the desperate Mr. Sawyer, is a political four-flush of the lowest order," Gov. Davey said. "The stamp of hypocrisy is all over it. Had it come a month ago, when there would have been time for examination and consideration, it might not have looked so bad."

The governor said he was certain the inquiry would show nothing wrong with the old age pension system.

Sawyer had charged several days ago that pensioners and other

GERMANS FIGHT COMMUNISTS IN CZECH DISTRICT

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Aug. 8.—(UP)—A score of Sudeten Germans and Communists nursed bruises today as the result of a Sunday fight at Saaz in the Pilsen hot growing region. Three of the Sudeten Germans were in hospital.

The fight took place after a Communist mass meeting. Sudeten Germans asserted that the Communists, on their way home, shouted "Down with Henlein" (the minority leader) and "Down with Hitler."

Viscount Runciman, British adviser in the minority problem, was reported in authoritative quarters tonight to be optimistic at the prospect of a peaceable settlement of the minority problem. It was believed that authorized spokesmen for the German minority had intimated to Runciman that they were willing to make concessions if Great Britain would act as guarantor of fulfillment of any agreement, and that government leaders also had intimated the possibility of concessions.

CURB-GUTTER JOB OPENS Construction of curbs and gutters in Williamsport, a branch of the county major W. P. A. project for road improvements, has been opened. Men on road improvement work were assigned to the Williamsport job. No new employees were added.

DIONNE BABIES BEDFAST WITH THROAT AILMENTS

CALLANDER, Ont., Aug. 8.—(UP)—were confined to their beds today at the Dafoe hospital, suffering from a throat infection.

All public appearances were cancelled. Their father, Oliva Dionne, was concerned most about Emilie, who he said had not taken any nourishment since Saturday.

Dr. Allan Dafoe, the children's doctor, and Dr. Allan Brown, Toronto child specialist who was called into consultation, did not consider their condition serious. "I have examined the Dionne quintuplets and am able to confirm Dr. Dafoe's diagnosis of a mild throat infection which naturally has been contracted from focus of infection. On account of their good resistance and sturdy physiques, they will probably be better in a week or so," Dr. Brown said.

REDS THREATEN BIG OFFENSIVE

Russian Troops Fight Japs Four Hours; Litvinov Warning Menacing

BY UNITED PRESS Soviet Russia threatened to abandon diplomatic fencing and resort to drastic artillery and aerial warfare to settle her Siberian frontier quarrel with Japan.

A four-hour battle in the Changkufeng sector and another fruitless diplomatic exchange in Moscow showed the Far Eastern border conflict to a new crisis after 11 days of sporadic but often severe fighting. Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinov told the Japanese that hereafter the Red army will strike with full power at any invader.

The danger of a formal war between Russia and Japan continued remote. Experts who took that view when the current clash began two weeks ago saw little reason to abandon it.

But a major battle already has been fought without a declaration of war and, in the totalitarian tempo, current developments might easily make it possible for either Moscow or Tokyo to prevent the conflict from exploding into a great undeclared war for domination of the Far East.

Censorship and inadequate communications clouded the full extent of the developments.

RUSSIA TO BUY 40 MILLIONS OF U. S. PRODUCTS

MOSCOW, Aug. 8.—(UP)—Soviet Russia will purchase approximately $40,000,000 worth of goods in the United States during the next year, it was announced today.

At the same time it was announced that the trade agreement between the United States and Russia has been renewed.

In 1935 and 1936 the United States and the Soviet had an agreement under which Russia purchased more than $30,000,000 worth of goods she had agreed to purchase. In 1937 the promised quota of Soviet purchases exceeded $40,000,000.

During the nine months the 1937-38 agreement has been in effect Russian purchases in the United States already have exceeded the agreed $40,000,000.

Under the agreement, the United States undertakes unconditionally to give the "most favored nation" treatment to Soviet commerce.

NAVY ORDERS STEAMER TO JOIN CLIPPER SEARCH

TOKYO, Aug. 8.—(UP)—The navy department announced today that it had ordered the steamer Canberra-Mar to search for the missing Hawaii Clipper until its supplies ran out.

The Canberra-Mar was searching in the vicinity of Douglas Reef, 800 miles South of Japan for the missing airliner. Japanese officials said that there was little hope that the clipper would be found.

Douglas Reef is approximately 600 miles Northwest of the Clipper's reported position.

MANY CONTESTS CLAIM INTEREST

Polls Open in Circleville At 6:30 A. M. Tuesday; Campaign at End

Candidates were busy Monday making last minute bids for votes in Tuesday's primary when many hard fought battles will be settled. Polls open at 6:30 a. m. and close 12 hours later.

Pickaway countians appear to have their greatest interest centered on the Davey-Sawyer contest for the Democratic nomination for governor. Both candidates have included Circleville in their campaign tours. Second in the line of interest is the congressional race. The county has only two contests to be settled, both on the Democratic ticket.

In the congressional race Harold K. Claypool, Chillicothe, seeks reelection on the Democratic ticket, with opposition from Robert L. Immell, Yellowbud, and James M. Lantz, Lancaster. Republican candidates are Tom White, Fairfield county, and Creed Silbaugh, Chillicothe.

Clark K. Hunsicker, Democrat, Circleville, is seeking reelection as representative to the general assembly. He is opposed for nomination by William I. Spangler, Turlington. The Republican nominee is William Radcliff, Williamsport mayor.

The only other county contest is for the Democratic nomination for commissioner. Those in the race are W. M. Beavers, Scioto township; Wayne F. Brown, Madison township; George T. Eitel, Circleville township, and Earl L. Hoffman, Washington township. C. E. Wright, Harrison township Republican, seeks reelection.

Mrs. Olivia Talbott Hays, N. Court street, is favored to win the position as member of the state central committee on the Democratic ticket. Other candidate for the committee position is Miss Josephine Justus, Lancaster.

Barkley's Edge To Pass 50,000

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 8.—(UP)—U. S. Sen. Alben W. Barkley, favorite of President Roosevelt, was conceded to have won the Democratic nomination to the U. S. senate over Gov. A. B. (Happy) Chandler today. His indicated majority was 50,000 votes.

Although Chandler, secluded in the executive mansion at Frankfort, declined to make a statement, his wife, Mildred, and Lieut-Gov. Keen Johnson, conceded.

"Happy is going to make a statement and congratulate Senator Barkley, of course," Mrs. Chandler said.

Unofficial tabulations of Saturday's votes in the Democratic primary gave Barkley 224,601 and Chandler 189,967 in 3,320 of 4,310 precincts. The official counting was resumed today. Kentucky law prohibits tabulating votes on Sunday.

Mrs. Chandler said "Happy's defeat was caused by the 250 to 300 millions of federal funds spent or promised in the campaign."

"Happy Can Take It" "You know you can't make any money in politics and especially when you're a psychopathic case of honesty such as Happy is," she said. "The people of Kentucky let Happy down. But if Kentucky doesn't want him, I sure do and you can tell the world that. We are not bitter and have no rancor. Happy is taking the defeat beautifully. You know he has never lost a political race but he has lost plenty of other races and he knows how to take it."

She said she and the Governor would leave Kentucky today for a week's rest.

Of the unreported precincts, more than half are in Jefferson county (Louisville), a Barkley stronghold. With only 68 of the county's 621 precincts reported, Barkley's early majority indicated he would carry the county by 15,000 votes. He would need only to maintain his present average out-state ratio to insure a 50,000 majority.

The unofficial tabulation included complete returns from 94 of the state's 120 counties, and all but three counties were represented.

groups had been solicited to support Davey.

Winner Faces Bricker

The Democratic nominee for governor will oppose John W. Bricker, unopposed Republican nominee, in the November election. Bricker is former Ohio attorney general and was defeated by Davey for governor in the 1936 Democratic landslide.

Even more vicious than the gubernatorial campaign in recent weeks has been the bid of Robert A. Taft, eldest son of the late President and Chief Justice William Howard Taft, and Judge Arthur H. Day of the Ohio supreme court for the Republican nomination for senator.

Judge Day has taken the offensive in charging that Taft has "tried to buy his way into the senate." Judge Day contended that as a member of the state legislature, Taft found loopholes in tax laws to benefit the Taft estate. Taft issued vigorous denials to these charges.

Political experts have conceded Former Governor George White little chance of defeating Senator Robert J. Bulkley, who is seeking renomination for a second term. Their campaign might have developed into battle pro and con the new deal after President Roosevelt expressed preference for Sen. Bulkley at Marietta, but it did not.

Gov. White said he would be nobody's "yes man" but did not make the New Deal a major issue. Sen. Bulkley campaigned solely on his record.

State incumbents seeking renomination are Secretary of State William J. Kennedy, Treasurer Clarence H. Knisley, and Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy.

Eight Ask Nomination

A new lieutenant governor will be elected this year because Paul P. Yoder of Eaton is not a candidate. Eight men are seeking the Democratic and two the Republican.

VOICE ...of the... PEOPLE

Circleville, Ohio
August 8, 1938

To the Editor of
The Circleville Herald

Tuesday, Aug. 9 our citizens will vote on a bond issue of $12,000 which is Circleville's share of the cost for building and equipping a New City Jail. In this building will be housed the city nurse.

Steel cages will be installed for men, women, and juveniles. A three car garage will be provided in the building. The new addition will extend from the west end of the present city building up to the alley. The addition will be same width as the present city building but will be one story. The plans provide that a second story can be added whenever necessary. The State of Ohio has condemned the old city prison. The City Cottage nor the City Garage are a Thing of Beauty. The U. S. Government will furnish 45% of the cost and the City of Circleville 55 percent. By this plan we secure this building complete at a little more than one half cost at other times. This new addition will be a great improvement to the city's property and in keeping with other improvements made by our citizens on Court and Main streets as well as the improvements made across the street between the Court House and County Jail. This addition to our City Building will be a greatly needed improvement.

Be sure to place X before Yes on your ballot. Do not forget the vote on All bond issues.

Yours respectfully,
John C. Goeller
President of City Council

Wolford, a graduate of Central high school, Columbus, last February, had gone to Darby creek with his uncle, C. W. Wolford, and a cousin, Ivan Wolford, 21, of 649 E. Main street, Lancaster.

Wolford's uncle, a plumber, has some work to do on a cottage along Darby. Charles Bliss, 10, of Harrisburg, was swimming with the older youths.

Cousin Finds Body

Ivan Wolford recovered his cousin's body by diving. A Harrisburg physician gave artificial respiration. Deputy Sheriff Earl Weaver said the body had been recovered only a short time when he arrived at the scene. The body was placed in an auto and rushed to fire station No. 16, at Fourth and Chestnut streets, Columbus, where an inhalator squad was ready to start work. Weaver said he left Circleville at 3:15 and at 4:15 Wolford's body had been taken to the fire station. The squad worked for 50 minutes in an effort to revive the youth. The youth was pronounced dead by Dr. J. E. Martin, 137 E. State street. Wolford's body was removed to the Wylie S. Shroyer funeral home.

He is survived by his parents and four sisters.

Both of the streams in which the youths were swimming were swollen by recent rains. The Scioto river was about three feet above normal. Neither of the youths wore bathing suits.

Some scientists contend that the development of intelligence in children is affected by diet.

Because of interest in his contest with Chandler, their votes were counted almost exclusively. Less than a third of the precincts had reported in the Republican senatorial contest in which John P. Haswell, Hardinburg attorney, was favored to win over four opponents.

The youth was pronounced dead by Dr. J. E. Martin, 137 E. State street. Wolford's body was removed to the Wylie S. Shroyer funeral home.

He is survived by his parents and four sisters.

Both of the streams in which the youths were swimming were swollen by recent rains. The Scioto river was about three feet above normal. Neither of the youths wore bathing suits.

Some scientists contend that the development of intelligence in children is affected by diet.

Because of interest in his contest with Chandler, their votes were counted almost exclusively. Less than a third of the precincts had reported in the Republican senatorial contest in which John P. Haswell, Hardinburg attorney, was favored to win over four opponents.

It appeared from scattered returns that all nine congressmen would be renominated. Three were not opposed.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 8—(UP)—George Dale, 20, Jack Parsons, 19, and Harold Hiblo, 24, told police that it was hot and that when they saw a truck loaded with beer, they couldn't resist the temptation to drive away with it.

Today, the youths signed confessions they had taken the truck, and that they had consumed 11 1-2 cases of the brew "to cool off." The drinking was done in a little more than a day. Police recovered two and a half cases in Dale's home.

10 Good Reasons Why You Should

NOMINATE CHARLES SAWYER

Democratic Candidate For Governor of Ohio Primary Elections, August 9

BECAUSE

1. He is honest, there is no question, and a man of wide experience. This is an office requiring experience in Government. A matured mind with a matured judgment.
2. In this high position he would not lose the common touch. He is kind, friendly, likeable, loveable and honest.
3. He would represent, in all State Dealings, the great State of Ohio in such a manner we would never have cause for fear or embarrassment.
4. He has been indorsed by all the leading newspapers in the state, an honor few receive.
5. He would certainly not make a spectacular Governor, but he would make a Governor Republicans as well as Democrats would be proud of.
6. He would make a Governor in these trying times who would be unwanting for courage, resourcefulness, sympathy for the indigent, patient and bold to attack the social problems confronting him.
7. He will give a business-like administration of every department, and all dealing with the state will be on a strictly business basis. It will not be necessary to pay money to any individual or individuals to do business with the State of Ohio.
8. He would work to the best interest of all concerned with all officers of the State, the Senate and the House of Representatives.
9. He believes in President Franklin D. Roosevelt, and will see that Ohio receives her share of Federal funds to be used to the best interest of every tax payer.
10. For rigid economy in all state departments, for a Governor you would never have to alibi for, for a governor that will ask of the state employees a just amount of work only, not contributions in fear of the loss of their jobs, nominate Charles Sawyer for Governor.

VOTERS OF FOUR STATES BALLOT IN PRIMARIES

Ohio, Idaho, Arkansas and Nebraska to Determine Many Issues

ROOSEVELT TAKES PART

President Goes to Southern District to Speak Twice For Candidates

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8—(UP)—Four states—Ohio, Idaho, Arkansas and Nebraska—hold primaries tomorrow.

They were the scheduled events on this week's political stage, but President Roosevelt, encouraged by the success of his personal endorsement candidate, Sen. Alben W. Barkley in Kentucky, may take their stellar roles from them by seeking to purge two conservative Democratic senators seeking re-nomination in the South.

Mr. Roosevelt lands at Pensacola tomorrow afternoon from his fishing vacation and goes immediately into Georgia for two speeches. In that state Sen. Walter F. George, enemy of many New Deal measures, seeks renomination over Lawrence Camp, who is said to have entered the race on New Deal urging. Later he moves on to South Carolina where Sen. Ellison D. Smith, another New Deal foe, is opposed for renomination by Gov. Olin D. Johnston, who announced his candidacy from the White House steps.

On "Purge" List

No one but Mr. Roosevelt knew what he would say to Georgia and South Carolina voters, but it had been reported repeatedly that George and Smith were on the New Deal purge list and political experts would not be surprised if he spoke a good word for their opponents, though falling short of the wholehearted, unequivocal endorsement he gave to Barkley.

The most important at tomorrow's primaries were those in Ohio where Gov. Martin L. Davey seeks his third Democratic gubernatorial nomination and Robert A. Taft, son of President William Howard Taft, seeks the Republican senatorial nomination. Davey is opposed by Charles Sawyer, Democratic national committeeman, and his campaign has been featured by bitter charges and countercharges, the last being that Davey had sought to coerce recipients of old age pensions under the federal Social Security act. The Social Security board will hold a hearing to investigate this charge later this week.

Taft was opposed by Supreme Court Judge Arthur H. Day who charged that Taft, a wealthy man, was spending a fortune in his campaign. After denying for a week that the senate campaign expenditures committee could legally inquire into the extent and amounts of contributions to his campaign, Taft capitulated yesterday and filled a report with it.

White vs. Bulky

In the Democratic senatorial race, Sen. Robert J. Bulky, who received a friendly mention in President Roosevelt's speech in the state last month, was opposed for renomination by former Gov. George White.

In Idaho, Sen. James P. Pope, a New Dealer, was opposed for Democratic re-nomination by Rep. D. Worth Clark. Clark called himself a conservative, while Pope was endorsed by Democratic National chairman James A. Farley.

In Arkansas, Sen. Hattie W. Caraway was opposed for Democratic re-nomination by Rep. John L. McClelland. The senate campaign expenditures committee was investigating McClelland's charge that federal office holders were working openly for her. The committee was expected to release its report on the investigation soon.

The Nebraska primary had no national significance. Both parties were nominating candidates for state offices and for five seats in congress.

The senate committee received from James W. Mellen, Los Angeles, candidate for the senate seat of William Gibbs McAdoo, 76-year old New Dealer, a charge that employees of the federal collector of revenue at San Francisco had been

Campaign To Be Famous As The Handshakingest

By S. D. FRIDLEY
Phone Ashville 79

This political campaign which in most part is closing up this evening, ready for decision day tomorrow, has been one of the most hand shakingest held. And what a fine thing it is that it happens only once in two years. There are supposed to be something around twenty-seven thousand people in Pickaway county. But we've had two candidates for commissioner tell us (don't dare mention their names) that in their travels, picnics and everything, they have delivered at least fifty thousand hard and swift candidate hand shakes, and besides, spreading all over their face, that big, broad smile when reciting to their victim what a fine person he is and sure glad to meet him. And three of the four, Eltel, Beaver, Brown and Huffman are sure to be let out in the cold—90 in the shade. And even this one, who has the idea he has something, has the same old handshaking-smiling campaign to do all over again before the November election. Thrust upon anyone, by "their many friends," this candidate running sure is a hard life, and as Referee of our Supreme Court, we'll see that there is something done about it.

A fine looking, hip-booted, fishingly-attired chap made his appearance in at Brink's yesterday morning and made many inquiries about "fishing down our way". He had heard up at his town, Carroll, that we had some big ones down here and he was out to see about it. Was some fisherman himself, he said. But when we told him about what had happened to Newt Hollingshead, he wasn't so sure he wanted to tackle anything like that. Said his name is Beatty, writes lots of insurance, Fairfield county Democrat and has Tom White as his neighbor. Thought Tom would make a good congressman "if and when" he got to Washington. But we didn't hesitate to tell him we had a home town boy, Creed Silbaugh, who wants the job himself and we just couldn't turn him down for Tom who'll have to wait till next time.

John Wilson and the Hall brothers are home from their Canadian fishing trip and had a fine time, John told us. Were away up in the dominion some 850 miles from home. Had for their guide, a half-breed Indian who gave them good and kindly treatment. Said no trouble about catching plenty of fish there, he said. . . . Farmers of Pickaway county, like their fellows throughout Ohio, are great believers in college educations for their children.

Ohio State university reports that of a total registration of 17,411 the last 12 months, one in every eight students was the son or daughter of a farmer.

Next among the 114 parental occupations listed were the salesman, followed closely by school officials, merchants, railway employees, public employees, and professional engineers.

Even in a motor age, 20 students were sons and daughters of blacksmiths, while only six listed their parents as chauffeurs.

AUTOIST FINED AFTER NEARLY HITTING DEPUTY

Clyde Lama, 28, of Rockbridge Route 2 was fined $50 and costs by Mayor W. B. Cady, Saturday, on a charge of reckless operation of an auto filed by Bob Armstrong, deputy sheriff.

Armstrong said Lama was speeding and almost ran over him with an auto in front of the courthouse Friday afternoon. Friday evening the deputy ordered Lama to go to the mayor's office from Franklin and Washington streets but he drove away. Lama was arrested in Laurelville and returned Saturday by Armstrong. He was committed to jail when he failed to pay his fine.

SEARCH BEGINS FOR CLIMBERS

Two Utah Students Fail To Return After Trip In Wasatches

SALT LAKE CITY, Aug. 8—(UP)—Sheriff's officers organized a searching party today to look for two University of Utah students feared lost on the rugged slopes of Twin Peaks, an 11,000 foot mountain in the Wasatch range.

Charles Foss, 21, and John Lairdson, 18, both of Salt Lake City, left early yesterday to scale the mountain, telling friends that they would return before nightfall. Fears for their safety spread as the early morning hours passed and they failed to reappear.

Foss is an experienced mountain climber, but Lairdson was making his first journey up the sides of a dangerous mountain.

George Keever, friend of the two, took them to the base of Twin Peaks yesterday and arranged to meet them at the same spot at 5 p. m. He notified authorities last night that they were several hours overdue.

Twin Peaks, high in the jagged Wasatch range, is 30 miles Southwest of Salt Lake City.

Severe electrical storms swept the area last night. The weather bureau reported that the wind velocity in the mountain range varied from 20 to 30 miles an hour.

Foss and Lairdson carried no food, extra clothing nor blankets. Deputy Sheriff German Dean assumed charge of organization of a rescue party. He said only experienced climbers would be used.

Boy, 5, Found Safe After Five Days in Wild Area

STURGEON FALLS, Ont., Aug. 8—(UP)—Five-year-old Fernand Tessier, who survived five days alone in wild, terrifying brush country populated by wild animals, was a hero today to the whole Nipissing district.

Neighbors came to pat his head and call him a brave and resourceful little man, and to ply him with questions. They found him in bed, against his will, and uncommunicative. His parents assumed that he had eaten berries, the only sustenance that the wilderness provides, and that he was too young to realize the perils he had undergone.

A searching party of farmers who found him late Sunday had to run him down. He ran when he saw them coming and the story learned from his footprints was that several times previously he had hidden in thickets when other searchers passed near him. He whimpered on being "captured," but otherwise appeared to be in good spirits and health.

He was found only a half mile from home, from where he strayed last Wednesday, but he was a wanderer in a jungle that even the native trappers enter timidly—where men have been lost and died, or have gone crazy with terror. They use the term "bush sickness" to describe the mental derangement of a person who loses his way and is stricken with the fear of wild animals, starvation and death by exposure.

Unmindful of all this, Fernand went out in search of berries and evidently found a plentiful supply. While he foraged, 400 farmers and trappers searched for him. They had been almost ready to give up when they found him.

The family doctor treated him for exposure and an inadequate diet.

OUR CHILDREN'S FUTURE

THE American public as a whole has never been as much interested in the war in Spain as the one in China. It has never responded so generously to pleas for Spanish aid as it has to pleas for relief funds for suffering Chinese.

There may be a number of reasons for this widespread indifference. The issues never seemed quite clear. There has never been the close friendship between the Spanish people and our own that has existed between the Chinese and Americans. But even if the heart has not dictated sympathy and practical aid for Spain, there remains another reason. William Allen White explains it in a current publication. In a strong plea for help for the hungry and homeless children of Spain he says:

"It is no time to assess the blame, here is no occasion to hold balance. Who cares for the historical view! The children of Spain are calling. If we turn the other way, if we march by on the other side with the priests and the Levites, we shall have committed the unpardonable sin. For these children's cause is ours. We are indeed members of one another, and if these children grow up with bitterness in their hearts, they will meet our own children in a world of hate! The sins of the fathers, our own sins of neglect, will be visited upon us in the next generation."

NIGHT PERILS

"NIGHT LIFE" must have been very dangerous a hundred years ago. Not merely in the meaning that term suggests nowadays to most people, but in its original sense of being outdoors after nightfall. Parks seem to have been particularly perilous places. Here is a medical warning given in a pamphlet written by Dr. W. Smith of Wooster, O., in the year 1829: "Public gardens are as dangerous as they are inviting. Their agreeable coolness at the close of a hot day, the gaiety of the company, and so on, concur to make age as well as youth forget the baneful effect of evening dews, of the night air. In the meanwhile, perspiration is checked and disease is inhaled in almost every breath. Ah, fly from the bewitching spot at an early hour; and think that even the verdure you tread on, so soft to the foot, and the plants and flowers, so pleasant to the sight and smell, begin soon after sunset to emit a sort of volatile poison and to contaminate the air around you."

And what is there for it, in case the unwary person is subjected to these baneful influences? "A little brandy, or brandy and water, while there, is the best preservative," says the doctor. But let no

PAGES from the Diary of an

Antiquated Reporter:

Up to find the thermometer well started on its regular daily altitude effort. Everything hot and sticky. Lingered briefly over coffee and the morning prints, then taking off for the post. My, how politicians clutter up the mail these days. One might think from a glance through the daily arrivals that the scrivener is a very personal friend of every candidate in the state on both parties. To tell the truth I know possibly a half dozen state candidates and all the rest not at all. Writing to editors nowadays is something like the old-time baby kissing.

Heard about the farmer who rushed into a local store and asked for shotgun shells in a hurry. "What size shot?" asked the clerk and the reply was "Tomcat size." There's a new designation.

Mrs. James Clark has made friends with a robin. The bird regularly waits on her porch for meals and when she leaves the door open the bird enters and makes itself right at home. When she goes into the back yard and calls the bird will answer her immediately. That's unusual enough to be news. There have been early mornings out my way when I would have enjoyed coaxing a pair of blue-jays into my bedroom if only for a moment. But robins are different.

Oh Oh Jackenrim, the great columnist up Lima way, comments thus in a recent issue of his paper: "Buyers do not realize that what they purchase today is not so much materials or jewels, but taxes. It isn't the tobacco in your cigar or cigarette that has advanced in price, but 8c to 9c in tax added to your pack of fags, and that much or more to your gasoline. Taxes are what you are really buying, yet people are still for 'em."

Merle Thorpe, writing in the current issue of Nation's Business, declares that Great Britain's tax burden is around 20 percent, while ours is 27 percent. "For the first time since our Federal government was set up," he writes, "it is taking more from its citizens than the United Kingdom. There is much loose talk in comparing our tax burden with those of other countries. Mr. Harry Hopkins said cynically that 'we don't know what it is to be taxed,' but the record judged on any basis, per capita, cost of government, or income, proves the United States now has bigger and better taxes than "debt-ridden England."

Thorpe continues: "While we are not certain of many things in this life, of this we are sure: When a nation expends the results of its labor in non-wealth producing enterprises through political agencies rather than in the development of new industries through the imagination and courage of its individual citizens, there can be no progress. Political spending makes for temporary employment; the other for continuous and increased employment of men."

Eighteen of the new industries developed here in the 50 years ending in 1930 employ today 9,000,000 men and women, nearly one-fourth of the total employed. The deflection of the people's savings from industrial ventures to political spending since 1930 has not added a single man or woman to a wealth-producing pay roll. During this period there have been a million men and women, exclusive of those on relief, added to political pay rolls. But this employment is overhead, not income producing.

FORD MAKES PEACE IN AUTO SUIT

WASHINGTON—After a long series of secret conferences, the Ford Motor Company has made its peace with the Justice Department regarding its alleged violation of the Anti-Trust laws.

This grew out of an indictment by a South Bend, Ind., federal grand jury on charges that the Big Three motor companies—Ford, General Motors and Chrysler—were violating the anti-monopoly laws by secretly controlling motor finance corporations. The suits were based on numerous complaints made to the government by independent dealers and finance companies that the Big Three forced them to finance through their own companies.

Following the indictments, Ford and Chrysler opened quiet negotiations with the Anti-Trust Division for an out-of-court settlement.

After several abortive attempts, Ford lawyers last week reached an agreement with the Division. The Justice Department agrees to dismiss the anti-monopoly suit. In return the Ford Company sets up a sort of code of fair-trade practice.

Details are being kept secret temporarily for two reasons: (1) because the government wants to submit the agreement to the complaining independents for their approval before officially announcing it; (2) because a similar settlement is in the works with Chrysler. The Justice Department hopes to be able to make both agreements public at the same time.

General Motors, in line with its general stiff-necked anti-administration attitude, so far has remained aloof from the peace negotiations.

TAFT'S SON

One Republican primary tomorrow which the New Deal is watching closely is the Ohio senatorial battle between Supreme Court Judge Arthur H. Day and the millionaire son of the late President Taft.

In contrast to his brother Charles Taft, Robert Alphonse Taft, the Ohio senatorial candidate, is a bitter enemy of the New Deal. He was the man who brought the Supreme Court suit testing out the gold content of the dollar.

Brother Charles, on the other hand, was Landon's Brain Trustster, wrote a book friendly to Roosevelt, and was uninvited to make a Lincoln Day address because he refused to damn the New Deal.

Despite Robert Taft's presidential lineage, Judge Day is the more colorful of the two men. The son of a country doctor, he worked his way up from hotel bell-hop, has a notable record on the Ohio Supreme Court. He has been waging a poor man's campaign while Taft is reputed to have spent a quarter of a million dollars.

Why Sun Goggles Are Good for Sensitive Eyes

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
SUN GOGGLES undoubtedly save a great deal of eye irritation. Those with sensitive eyes—blue and light irises—find them almost necessities. The summer sunshine on motor highway and by beach and shore is not badly irritating. If you think, however, of what the glare of the sun coming through the thin air of the mountain peaks and reflected from the fields of snow will do, you can see that there are possibilities of trouble in any bright, prolonged sunlight. The mountain snow field glare would cause a severe conjunctivitis to anyone who was long enough exposed. People vary in sensitivity to this, and instinctively those who would be burned by summer sunlight affect goggles.

Besides the local effect on the conjunctiva, goggles prevent headaches and reflex nervous digestive upsets. I know of two instances where migraine sufferers found that going out in the sun without goggles brought on attacks. Many cases of summer headache must be of the same variety.

Stimulated by an article by Meta Rosenthal in the July number of Hygiea, I have been investigating the varieties and principles of different sun goggles.

After the light rays at either end of the spectrum were discovered—those invisible to human vision—the invention of glasses to strain out some of these rays has gone on.

It is the ultraviolet rays beyond the violet end of the spectrum which cause the conjunctivitis of the unwary mountain climber.

Some abortive attempts at making colored glasses were made by Fieuzel of Paris and Dr. William Thompson of Philadelphia in the 1880's. Thompson had glasses made with an amethyst tint, and since no good formula for making amethyst glass existed, opticians used old window panes, colored amethyst by long exposure to sunlight. Such were the crude beginnings of the modern industry of colored glasses.

Experiments With Colored Lenses
But in 1909 the Glasgow Workers Cataract Committee of Great Britain engaged Sir Isaac Crookes to experiment on adding various metals to the ingredients of glass in order to produce various colored lenses. The committee was so named because they were attempting to prevent a cataract peculiar to glass blowers and considered to be due to infra-red rays.

The result of these experiments was the Crookes glasses which are now the most popular form of sun goggles. They range in color from dark gray, almost black, to almost white.

The needs of the aviator, the motorist and the fisherman or hunter are all somewhat different as regards colored glasses. The aviator needs to be relieved of glare, but he also needs glasses that will not cut off the yellow rays of the sun. The eye sees over large spaces and most clearly by the yellow-green rays of the spectrum.

Polaroid is a new material much in vogue at present. It consists of a film of cellulose with minute crystals of iodine in it, cemented between two flat glass discs. It admits only waves of light which vibrate in a single flat plane. It is a great boon to the motorist, and it is said that automobile headlights will soon be made of polaroid.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Seven pamphlets by Dr. Clending can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin for each, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clending, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "The Water Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

CHAPTER 32

NEXT MORNING the first thing Laurie saw when she got out of bed was the note which she had not seen the night previously. It was lying unopened on the floor. Noel was sleeping soundly, and Laurie hated to wake her, but she knew the contents of the note would make her happier than she had been for days.

So Laurie gave Noel a gentle shake. "Wake up, honey, wake up," she exclaimed.

Noel opened her eyes. "Where's the fire?" she asked sleepily.

"It's a letter from Doctor Paige," Laurie said happily. "I put it on your pillow last night so you would be sure to see it. But you must have knocked it off when you climbed into bed."

Noel sat up, stretching out her white arms. "Give it to me! Give it to me!" she begged.

Laurie had thought she might tease her a little before handing the note to her, but the look on Noel's face made her change her mind.

Noel opened the envelope with fingers that trembled. Inside were two of Julian's prescription blanks on which he had written:

"Dear Noel: How about another picnic tomorrow—same place same time? I need a bit of holiday, but more than that, I need a glimpse of you. Always thinking of myself, aren't I? Selfish man. Let me know by Laurie. Yours, Julian."

For a long moment, Noel just sat there, holding Julian's note in her fingers. She knew Laurie was looking at her, so she said in a voice that shook a little from happiness: "Am I a fool to—care so much?"

Laurie was looking at her with an indulgent smile. "Women are made like that. They can't help themselves. That's why," she stopped a moment then went on a little hesitantly, "I suppose lots of them do dishonest things to get the man they want."

"I didn't know you were such a philosopher," Noel said.

"Might as well be," Laurie answered.

Noel looked down at the note she still held in her hand. Then she looked up again at Laurie.

"Aren't you ever, ever going to see Jimmy again?"

"I had a date last night after I got off from work," Laurie said, a little hard light coming into her eyes. "But his mother found it out, and promptly had a heart attack. Poor Jimmy! He phoned me he couldn't come."

"Do you suppose she really did have an attack?" Noel asked.

"No, I think it was a phony one," Laurie said decidedly.

"It's hard to believe she'd do that, that any woman would," Noel said feelingly.

"It's harder on Jimmy than it is on me," Laurie said after a pause. "Sometimes he thinks his mother is faking, and sometimes he just can't believe it. But of course if he left her, and she was really very ill, and—anything happened, well, you can see how dreadful it would be for him."

"Yes, I can see," Noel murmured. She could not help believing herself that Jimmy's mother was pretending and was just a completely selfish person. But Noel felt that she, herself, had no right to pass judgment on Jimmy's mother. In any way Noel knew she had been just as selfish. Not that she knowingly had stood in the way of the happiness of other people. But at least she had never given a thought to their troubles, or of any way she might help them. She had lived for herself alone, with no idea in the world except how she might manage to keep from being bored.

"Give it to me! Give it to me!"

It seemed ironic that now, since Noel was in a position to do nothing about it, she could see so many, many places where she could help. Just merely by the slightest exertion on her part—that of signing a few checks, Maida for instance, so gentle and timid and so worn out with the unequal struggle, and Joey, who could be of so much help, if only he had a bicycle. And poor Jimmy, so torn between the two women who loved him, one selfishly, and the other unselfishly, as a woman loves the man she wants to work with and stand by his side as his wife.

Laurie was ready to go to work. "Of course, I'll tell Doctor Paige you couldn't think of meeting him," she teased.

"Sure—tell him I wouldn't dream of coming," Noel humored her happily.

"I'll tell him that you'll be there with bells on and banners in your hair," Laurie said as she went out, waving Noel a laughing goodbye.

A few minutes later Noel jumped up. She fixed herself a little breakfast, delighted that the coffee was drinkable and the toast not too soggy. She wasn't much in position this morning to realize what she ate. Anything would taste like food for the gods, she was so happy.

Just because Julian had written a note saying that he wanted to see her, her silly heart had started dreaming again.

She ran to the window to see what kind of a day it was going to be, and saw that the sun was already coming up. She could see it behind the tall elm trees. It was going to be a glorious day.

Then she started dressing. First, her one good pair of chiffon stockings. She was glad she had rinsed them out yesterday. She inspected them carefully for the least sign of a run, having learned from Laurie that that was the best way to keep things in condition, to inspect them carefully every day for the tiniest suspicion of a break in the silk.

Noel hadn't even known before she and Laurie had roomed together that runs could be mended in silk hose. Or that you could take your shoes to a cobbler and have the heels built up until they looked like new.

She had had the oxfords fixed at

TODAY'S GARDEN-GRAPH

AUGUST SHOULD be house cleaning time for iris. All the yellowish leaves and litter around the plants should be gathered and burned. Sanitation is of vital importance in the culture of iris, for strict observance of it will prevent many diseases of the plants which otherwise would be carried over the winter and become epidemic the following year.

Be alert for the appearance of leaf-spot in iris. It usually develops soon after the plants have flowered. The best method of control is to remove and burn any leaves showing the markings, illustrated in this Garden-Graph.

If iris are at all crowded in their beds, the leaves should be cut back to allow sun and air to reach the rhizomes.

Evergreens should be watched for attacks of red spider, particularly during dry weather. Sometimes a strong spray of cold water from a hose will control them.

Housecleaning time for iris. Otherwise use one of the contact sprays or dust with sulphur.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 8.—The call has gone out to 46 varsity football aspirants at Ohio State university, instructing them to report Sept. 10 for pre-school practice.

Coach Francis A. Schmidt plans drills twice daily until the first game Oct. 1, with Indiana university.

In a letter to candidates, Coach Schmidt advised them to start getting in condition now. "We will start hard work Sept. 10," he says, "Your chance to show well will depend on how good a condition you are in when your report. Begin by taking wind sprints and plenty of jogging to build up your legs and body."

Ohio State's complete schedule this year is:

Oct. 1, Indiana, here; Oct. 8, Southern California, here; Oct. 15, at Northwestern; Oct. 22, Chicago, here; Oct. 29, at New York University; Nov. 5, Purdue, here; Nov. 12, at Illinois; Nov. 19, Michigan, here.

Taken from our earthly vision To his home in Heaven above. Then we asked, why he was taken? 'Tis a mystery none can tell. We'll not mourn for we know he is happy For God doth all things well. Though our hearts are torn and bleeding That for him were filled with love, Yet thank God we all shall meet him In our home in Heaven above.

CARD OF THANKS
We desire to extend our sincere thanks to our neighbors and friends for their kindness and the beautiful floral tributes, to Rev. Sayre for his consoling words, to C. E. Hill, funeral director, for his efficient service.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hill and family.

Cincinnati Falls Apart, Pennant Threat Gone?

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Aug. 8.—(UP)—Baseball experts today took the "pennant threat" sign off the Cincinnati Reds and put it in a corner to gather dust until at least the 1939 season.

The Reds blew a glorious chance to jump into second place in the National league race here yesterday and retain a good chance for the flag when they dropped both ends of a double-header to the rejuvenated Brooklyn Dodgers. The scores were 11 to 10 and 6 to 3. Amateurish pitching was the story back of both defeats. Manager Bill McKechnie used five hurlers in a futile attempt to win the opener and then let Ray (Peaches) Davis go the route in the second contest although he was mauled hard.

Johnny Vander Meer, the rookie southpaw who has been a dismal flop during the last five weeks, started the first game. The Reds gave him a handsome seven-run lead in the first two innings, but when he began to dissipate it by wildness Manager McKechnie jerked him before he retired a man in the second inning.

During his short stay on the hill Vander Meer did not give up a hit, but walked five men. It was the fourth straight contest the young southpaw of no-hit, no-run fame has failed to finish.

After Vander Meer left the box, "Bucky" Walters tried his hand but had no better luck than he did Saturday when he started against the Dodgers and was blasted from the hill in the first inning. Walters was nicked for five hits in two innings. Then came Lee Grissom, who did not permit a safety in the next 4 1/2 innings; Gene Schott and finally Joe Casarella. Casarella was charged with the loss.

In the second game Davis pitched effectively for seven innings and had a 3 to 2 lead at the end of that stretch. He then lost his "stuff" and Brooklyn pounded him for four runs in the eighth inning. The veteran Freddy Fitzsimmons went the route for the Dodgers and allowed only six hits.

Ival Goodman, slugging Red outfielder, was on the bench yesterday because of a side injury received when hit by a pitch ball Saturday. "Dusty" Cooke replaced him in right field.

The Reds are scheduled to play an exhibition game with Syracuse of the International league tonight.

Record Claimed
COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Aug. 8.—(UP)—A new long course world record for the 1,000 meters freestyle swim was claimed today for Miss Toni Petersen, 16-year-old Danish girl. She was timed in 13 minutes, 15.9 seconds yesterday, bettering the mark of 13:23.8 set by Henne Madison in 1931.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 8.—After another successful tour of their favorite hunting grounds, the Eastern half of the National League, the battling Cincinnati Reds returned home Tuesday for three games in as many days with the revamped Chicago Cubs. The first game will be Ladies' Day.

This is to be a critical series, as the Reds and Cubs have fought each other tooth and nail all season, and the Bruins are now inspired by their new leader, Gabby Hartnett.

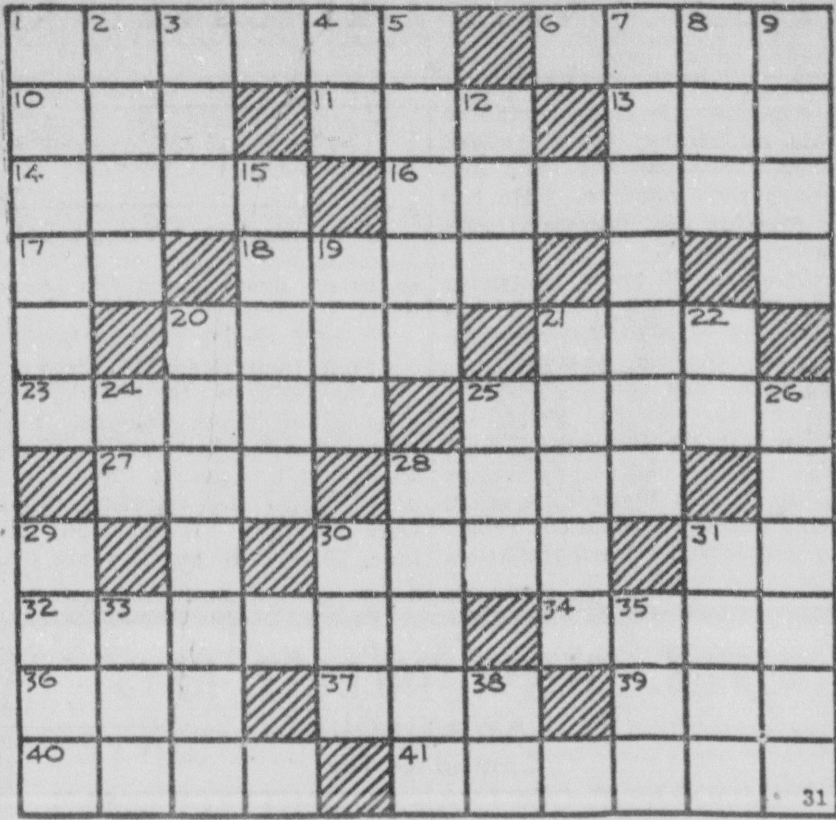

One of the biggest occasions of the season will be Friday, when the Reds will play under the lights for the fifth time this year. Their opponents will be the colorful St. Louis Cardinal gas house gang.

It is to be Shrine Night and a large number of members of that order will attend. The shrine band, a unit of sixty pieces, will parade. The Reds will have an off-day Saturday, and on Sunday the series with the Cardinals will close as the teams clash in a double-header. This will mark the last appearance of the Cardinals at Crosley field until September.

Next week the Reds will face dangerous going as they will be the guests of the league-leading Pittsburgh Pirates. They will play a pair of contests in Pittsburgh and then journey to St. Louis for a grueling stretch of five games in three

SCIOTO TOWNSHIP HOMECOMING ATTRACTS RECORD GATHERING

GRANGE CLAIMS FIRST PRIZE FOR PARADE FLOAT

Six Contestants Find Ice Event to Their Liking; Prize Money Divided

RAIN HALTS CELEBRATION

Winners in Other Divisions Listed; Three Men Serve As Judges

Largest crowd in the history of the Commercial Point homecoming attended the celebration on Saturday.

Feature of the last day was a huge parade of floats, comics and decorated bicycles. Music was furnished by the county 4-H club band.

First prize for floats was won by the Scioto Grange, second by the Parent-Teachers Association of Commercial Point, and third, the Philaetha club, Commercial Point.

Winner in the class for comics were: 1. Frank Griffey, Commercial Point; 2. Burnley family, Commercial Point, and 3. Haughn & Melvin, Commercial Point. Winners in the decorated bicycle competition were: 1. Timmie Moore, Commercial Point; 2. Varnadine LeMay, Commercial Point.

Saturday's torrid weather put the jinx on an ice-sitting contest staged at the celebration. Two men and four women participated in the event, each sitting on a 50-pound cake of ice. After one hour the contestants showed no signs of weakening. It was decided to divide prizes of $2, $1 and 50 cents equally among the contestants and call off the event.

Judges in the parade were George D. McDowell, superintendent of county schools; Orren Updyke, Circleville, Route 3, and Ed Ruff, South Bloomfield.

Rain Saturday night ended the celebration about 11:30 o'clock.

Sometimes my heart just bleeds for those people who are always gettin' their feelings hurt at the slightest little thing. Seems like they oughta be able to cure themselves of such sensitiveness but maybe it's just somethin' they can't help like freckles or hay fever. I can sympathize with people that "cant take it" because my Uncle Tuck is one of the most sensitive men I ever saw.

My aunt told him one day "Tuck, I wish you'd stop boastin' and braggin'. You know Milton said for all his tedious talk is but vain boastin'." Uncle Tuck sat there and gloomed for a couple of minutes and then he took his hat and started out. My aunt said "Where are you going?" and my uncle said "I'm going straight to Jake Milton's place—he can't talk like that about me and get away with it!"

Judge Declares Davey Forces Resort to Fraud

Judge Hugh L. Nichols, chairman of the Sawyer campaign committee, today issued the following statement:

"The fraudulent letter issued in the effort to drag the Catholic Church and the Ku Klux Klan into a joint partnership with Governor Davey brings to a climax of folly the campaign of a discredited, desperate man.

This is an appropriate culmination of the activities of the most incorrigible trickster ever to attempt to fasten his power upon the people of this state. This mailing of a purported letter of the Ku Klux Klan to Catholics in the effort to drive votes away from his opponent, is but one of the characteristic tricks to which this candidate has stooped. While trying, by one trick, to rally the people of the Catholic religion to his side, he has sought by a similar trick, also fraudulent, to rally the Protestants to himself. All this chicanery in the name of religion, he has practiced on the very eve of the holy Sabbath day, a time when just men are planning, not contemptible frauds, but lives of greater rectitude. The details are brief:

"In the first instance, the name of J. A. Colescott on supposedly Klan literature is addressed to Klansmen, but mailed to Catholics. It says Sawyer is pledged to oppose state aid to parochial schools.

"In the second instance, the Allocation of $29,250 to the Perry township school district for an addition to the school was made Saturday by the Public Works Administration.

Announcement of the allocation was made by Harold K. Claypool, congressman.

Residents of the district will vote on a bond issue for $35,750 Tuesday for the ownership's share of the improvement, estimated at $65,000.

organization. In it the statement is made that Davey suits us better than Sawyer."

"In the third instance, a forged letter over the name of S. P. McNaugh, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, is sent to its members. It asserts that Davey has always favored the cause of temperance. It is a well known fact that every employee of the Liquor Department and every liquor dealer who can be coerced is riding the roads for Davey. Thus, into one cesspool of fraud and deception, the campaign of Governor Davey for continued control of the power and the purse of the people of Ohio has sunk. He has counted once too often upon the credulity of an intelligent electorate."

name of B. F. Lamb, Secretary of the Ohio Council of Churches (Protestant) is forged to a letter addressed to members of that

HUGH HERBERT AND WIFE

With Hugh Herbert and his wife, Anita Pam, headlining the Rudy Vallee Variety Hour Thursday, Aug. 11, another show leaning heavily toward light comedy to make listeners laugh off the summer heat is promised. The rest of the lineup includes Joe Lewis, comic, and Tito and his Swingtete, accordionists extraordinary.

Hugh Herbert, originator of the "woo-woo" phrase that's sweeping the country, is to do a dramatic sketch by Richard Weil called, "Meet the Folks," with his wife as his leading lady. This is in line with the new Vallee custom of putting established comedians in playlets inspired by the success of Edward Everett Horton a few weeks back in "The Physician in Spite of Himself."

The laugh-getting talents of Joe Lewis were originally scheduled for a hearing on the Vallee broadcast a week before but a New York night club contract prevented his trip west. Now that Rudy is back in his natural Radio City habitat, Joe makes his belated appearance on the hour that is broadcast over the NBC red network at 7 p. m.

FORTY YEARS AS PASTOR SUBJECT OF SUNDAY TALK

Interesting figures in serving a congregation for 40 years were revealed by Dr. G. J. Troutman, pastor of Trinity Lutheran church, Sunday.

Dr. Troutman estimates that he has baptized about 1,800 persons, married 1,600 couples, officiated at 1,500 burials and delivered 8-

000 sermons. In many instances in his church he has baptized persons, later married them and baptized their children. He has also married the children of parents he married.

During his 40 years as pastor of Trinity Lutheran church he has received 17 calls to other congregations. The congregation numbered about 280 persons when he came to the church. There are now about 1,000 members.

The present church, parsonage and the parish house have been erected during the time Dr. Troutman has served the congregation.

Keep CLAYPOOL in Congress

FIRST: He Deserves a Second Term

Every fair minded Democratic voter believes that a Democratic Congressman who during his first term supported a Democratic Administration is entitled to a second term. Every Democrat in the Eleventh District who believes in fair play is supporting Claypool.

SECOND: Claypool Has Given His District Results

During his first term Congressman Claypool secured $1,000,000 for rural electrification for his district; secured an authorization of $8,500,000 for flood control work; $2,000,000 for PWA projects; $10,000,000 for WPA projects. There is not a community in the Eleventh District that has not secured benefits as a result of Claypool's work in Washington.

THIRD: Claypool Has an Unbeatable Record in Congress

Congressman Claypool's voting record in the U. S. Congress shows that he voted for the common people on every measure considered during his term. He is the Congressman of Labor—of Agriculture—of Small Business. During the entire campaign not a single voice has been raised to question Claypool's record. Why? Because it is an unassailable record of honest straightforward service for the people.

FOURTH: All Dem. Leaders Predict a Claypool Victory

All Democratic leaders, political writers, and observers agree that Claypool will carry every county in the Eleventh District as he did at the last general election and win by a two to one margin. These observations are based on the fact that opposition to Claypool's campaign for a second term has collapsed. Neither of his opponents has offered anything but promises. Claypool has given results. Claypool has been endorsed by every major labor organization, prominent leaders in veterans' affairs, and by Roosevelt's spokesmen in Congress, Speaker Bankhead, and Majority Leader Congressman Sam Rayburn.

AN INTELLIGENT, ALERT DEMOCRACY WILL OVERWHELMINGLY RE-ELECT CONGRESSMAN HAROLD K. CLAYPOOL. HE WAS ELECTED TO A FIRST TERM. HE MADE GOOD. THE DEMOCRATS OF THE ELEVENTH DISTRICT ARE NOT GOING TO EXCHANGE AN EXPERIENCED, SUCCESSFUL CONGRESSMAN WHO HAS GIVEN RESULTS FOR CANDIDATES MAKING EMPTY PROMISES.
